

Pregnant?
You have options.

So you're pregnant and unsure what to do? You deserve to understand your options. You can't make a good choice without knowing all your choices!

You deserve an advocate who will listen to your fears, hopes, and goals for yourself and your child and empower you to make a choice that fits both of your needs.

Lifeline can be that advocate for you.

Myths About Adoption

Myth: Adoption is the same as abandoning my child.

Truth: Adoption is making a loving thoughtful plan for your child. A good mom makes a plan for her child.

Myth: Adoption is like foster care and my child might not be well taken care of or could be moved around.

Truth: Adoption is choosing a permanent family for your child, and it is a legal, "forever" decision providing security and permanency. Lifeline can choose a family for you if you desire.

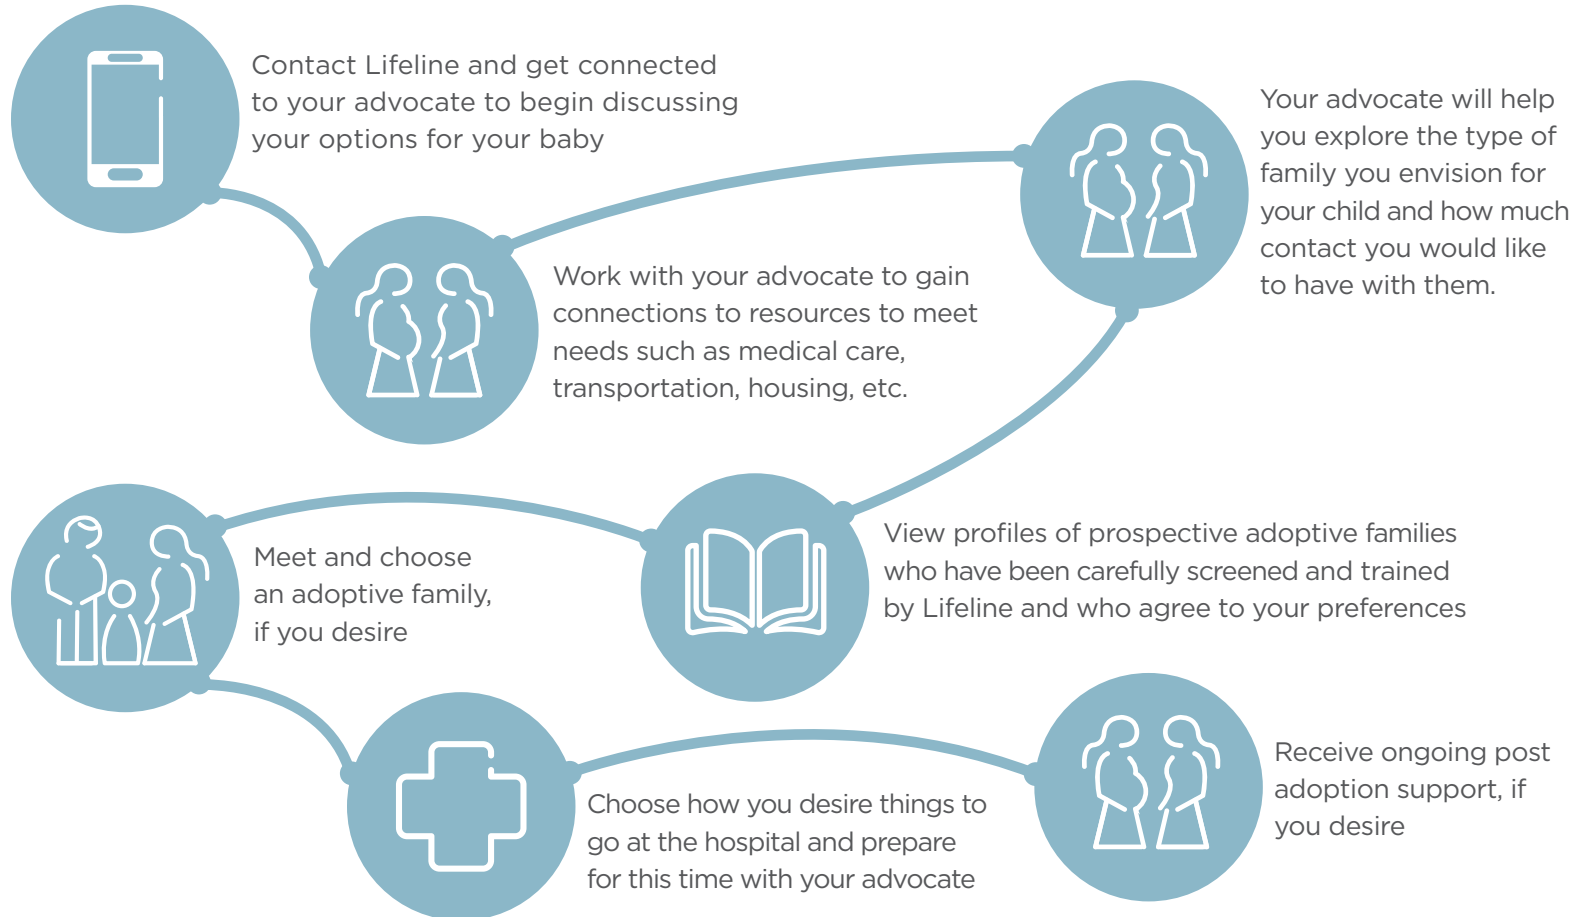

Myth: My child will never know anything about me and will hate me.

Truth: If you desire, you can have an open adoption. This means you can establish a relationship with the adoptive family and child that includes contact after adoption. This can be pictures and letters, visits, email, social media, or whatever you are comfortable with. The child will know that you made an adoption plan out of love for them. While closed adoption with no contact is rare, you can choose this if you desire.

How Do I Make An Adoption Plan?

Why Lifeline?

- We were founded for you, not for the adoptive families.
- We believe adoption is a great option for many women, but not every woman. We want you to have the freedom to explore this option with no pressure to choose it.
- We provide your own advocate who is separate from the adoptive family's advocate.
- Not every adoptive family who applies is approved by Lifeline. We carefully select, screen, and train our adoptive families to know how to care for a child through adoption and how to honor the birth mother in their home.
- We provide support after birth if you desire.
